

As debtors to mercy alone

(DE FLEURY. 8.8.8.8.D. DACTYLIC)

Augustus Montague Toplady (1740-1778)

White's Sacred Melodies

$\text{♩} = 90$

1. As deb - tors to mer - cy a - lone,
 2. The work which His good - ness be - gan,
 3. Our names from the palms of His hands

Of hea - ven - ly mer - cy we sing ;
 The arm of His strength will com - plete :
 E - ter - ni - ty will not e - rase :

Nor fear to draw near to the throne,
 His pro - mise is Yea and A - men,
 Im - pressed on His heart they re - main

Our praise and our wor - ship to bring :
 And ne - ver was for - feit - ed yet :
 In marks of in - de - li - ble grace :

The wrath of a sin - hat - ing God
Things fu - ture, nor things that are now,
And we to the end shall en - dure,

With us can have no - thing to do ;
Nor all things be - low nor a - bove ;
As sure as the earn - est is given ;

The Sav - iour's o - be - dience and blood
Can make Him His pur - pose for - go,
More hap - py, but not more se - cure,

Hide all our trans - gres - sions from view.
Or sev - er our souls from His love.
The spi - rits de - part - ed to heaven.

Alternate Tunes : Dursley (8.8.8.8), 399 ; Elland (8.8.8.8), 61.